Fields of knowledge: Law, private law, corporate law.
Law School and administration students

- c) Abstract: The purpose of this project is to improve studies about how state intervention happens on business activity since the Brazilian State, following a worldwide trend, has increased its interventive character in the Economy. Based on the data collected, it will be possible to conclude whether the regulatory state has already achieved some of the reform's objectives, namely: market strengthening, regional development, adoption of efficient control measures for the purpose of restricting business concentrations which endanger the survival of competitors in a given market and the protection of consumer rights, as well as control of crisis situations in the face of company insolvency. For purposes of international PIBIC, the project will also include a comparative analysis regarding the researchers country of origin.
